Do you have a product or service that you have utilised to support the Covid-19 situation?

Has your company or staff been volunteering in the community?

Most people's professional and personal lives have been hugely disrupted by the Corona Virus (COVID-19) sweeping the world.

That said, when the pressure is on and society is facing unprecedented challenges, businesses large and small have been re-thinking the way they work; re-evaluating what they produce and how they deliver the product or service by their employees, to their customers and the community at large.

From a business and government perspective, what we have seen, is how astonishingly fast we can adapt and make decisions, when we want to influence change as a society.

We would like to help spread some positive news at this difficult time and highlight contributions made within the region by tenants at the Science Park.

Do you have a product or service that you have utilised to support the Covid-19 situation? Has your company or staff been volunteering in the community? If so, we would love to hear from you and support you in spreading the word about your achievements.
